DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Figure 1B should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. As shown in Figure 7A, each of the wires (2a) is constituted by a core thread (31) and a conductor (32) wound on the surface of the core thread, and then the surface of the conductor is covered with an insulator.

Claim 4, on the other hand, recites the surface of the wires being covered with an insulator, such limitation is not supported in the specification.

Claim Objections

4. Claims 3 and 4 are objected to because of the following informalities:
- in claim 3, line 1, change "the wire" to --each of the wires--,
- in claim 4, line 1, change "the wire" to --each of the wires--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bleich et al. (5,600,097).

Bleich et al. discloses an electric cord (Fig. 1) comprising a plurality of wires, wherein the respective wires are electrically insulated from each other (re claim 1), and wherein the cord is formed by twisting a plurality of wire rods each of which is formed by twisting the plurality of wires (re claim 2). Noted that the cord of Bleich et al. can be used to connect between a vibrator and an input terminal since the cord of Bleich et al. comprises structure and material as claimed.

7. Claims 1 and 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cocco (Re.31,197).

Cocco discloses an electric cord comprising a plurality of wires (31), wherein the respective wires are electrically insulated from each other (re claim 1). Cocco also discloses each of the wires being constituted by a core thread (33) and a conductor (32) winded on the surface of the core thread, and the surface of the conductor being covered with an insulator (34) (re claim 3), each of the wires being constituted by a core thread and a conductor winded on the surface of the core thread, and the surface of the wires (31) being covered with an insulator (36) (re claim 4), the conductor being a rectangular (ribbon) conductor having a rectangular section (re claims 5 and 6). Noted that the cord of Cocco can be used to connect between a vibrator and an input terminal since the cord of Cocco comprises structure and material as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 1 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bleich et al.

Bleich et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the cord being connected between a vibrator and an input terminal or being used with a loudspeaker. Although not disclosed by Bleich et al., it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use the cord of Bleich et al. to connect between a vibrator and an input terminal or to be used with a loudspeaker since the cord of Bleich et al. is telecommunications cable and since it has been held that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Cited Art

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Poulsen discloses a cable comprising an insulated rectangular conductor. Congdon et al. discloses a cable comprising wires, each being constituted by a core thread which is surrounded by a conductor.
